PARISH AND NONCONFORMIST REGISTERS

Family History Society Publications

Copies held in Bradford Local Studies Library.

What are Parish Registers?

In 1538 Thomas Cromwell, ordered that every baptism, marriage and burial be recorded. The first records were written on paper, then on parchment and eventually all entries were made in a book and kept in a Parish Chest for safety. In 1753, with Hardwicke's Marriage Act, marriages had to be written in a separate book from baptisms and burials. In 1812 under Rose's Act separate pre-printed books were used for all three events. Be aware that before 1733 the entries are likely to be in Latin.

Parish registers continue to the present day. However, it is very unlikely that a complete record from 1538 to the present date exists for any one church. During the English Civil War entries were spasmodic and in 1653 civil registration replaced the parish registers. Therefore, few survive from this time.

What can be found in the Registers?

Before 1813 the information provided was variable and depended on the incumbent of the Parish. Some incumbents added useful notes at the side of the entry: such as birth date; cause of death; or religious conviction. After 1813 (1837 for marriages), and pre-printed stationary, the following details should be available:

Baptisms - date of baptism, name, parents' names, parents' place of residence, father's occupation, person officiating.

Marriages – date of marriage, names, marital status, occupation and place of residence of the bride and groom, fathers' names and occupation, whether married by banns or license, person officiating, signatures of the bridal couple.

Burials – Date of Burial; Name; Place of residence/occupation; Age; Person officiating. Sometimes the parent's name and marital status will be included.

Bradford Local Studies Library holds copies of Family History Society publications containing transcription of parish registers throughout Yorkshire.

Below is a list of those available. The dates given are outside dates only and there maybe gaps in some registers and the Bishops' Transcripts.
